

postgres.js - Support #5257

method to catch error on connection?

05/26/2011 09:15 AM - Rick Harding

Status:	New	Start date:	05/26/2011
Priority:	Normal	Due date:
Assignee:		% Done:	0%
Category:		Estimated time:	0.00 hour
Target version:		Spent time:	0.00 hour
Description
I'm trying to figure out how to properly catch an exception such as when the db server is unavailable. I've tried binding to a connection.on('error') event, but it doesn't look like it emits one. I see 'error' emitted when a query fails, but nothing on the actual connection attempt. Am I missing the proper way to handle that?
Thanks			